

Paid Leave Means A Stronger New York

JANUARY 2018

New York is home to the fourth state paid family and medical leave program in the United States. New York's paid leave program took effect on January 1, 2018, allowing working people to take paid family leave to care for new children or seriously ill loved ones for up to eight weeks with some pay – and 12 weeks in 2021 when in full effect. The state's paid leave program builds on its decades-old disability insurance plan, which guarantees paid medical leave to people who need to be out of work for serious health issues.<sup>1</sup>

New Yorkers are caught between their work and family responsibilities.

People in New York
both work and provide care

- ▶ In 68 percent of all New York households with children – more than 2.7 million homes – all parents have paying jobs.<sup>2</sup>
- ▶ Women's wages support their households. In New York, 81 percent of Black mothers, 64 percent of Latina mothers and 50 percent of white mothers are key family breadwinners.<sup>3</sup>
- ▶ Women make up nearly half of New York's labor force (48 percent) and nearly one-third of its business owners (30 percent).<sup>4</sup>
- ▶ Across the country, many men want to play a larger role in caring for their children,<sup>5</sup> but unsupportive policies and stigma hold them back.<sup>6</sup>

Paid leave means not having to choose between job and family.

New York families are facing family and medical care needs.

- ▶ Nearly one in four workers is age 55 and older.<sup>7</sup>
- ▶ In less than 15 years, the share of the state's population age 65 and older will grow by nearly 30 percent.<sup>8</sup>
- ▶ Older workers are more likely to experience serious medical conditions that require care.<sup>9</sup>
- ▶ Ten people die every day from drug overdoses in New York.<sup>10</sup>

Paid leave means older adults and working people of all ages can get the support they need to receive and provide critical care.

The state's caregiving needs are significant, and growing

New York will soon see the benefits of paid leave for workers, families and businesses.

New York's paid leave program will soon
help millions

- ▶ Paid leave helps improve health outcomes and helps working people remain economically secure and stay connected to their jobs.
- ▶ Businesses' employee retention can also improve significantly with paid leave, helping to strengthen bottom lines.
- ▶ State programs are used as intended by workers without overburdening employers.<sup>11</sup>

Paid leave means people can care for their families or health without jeopardizing their economic security, reducing turnover for employers and boosting the economy.

New York will soon add to the growing body of evidence that paid leave programs work – and that there is a common sense, tested approach that works for families, businesses and economies.

But, people's access to paid leave shouldn't depend on where they live or work or what job they hold. A paid leave policy for the nation would build on state models. It would:

- ▶ Be cost-effective for workers, employers and the government;
- ▶ Cover all working people, apply equally to men and women and reflect a modern definition of family;
- ▶ Include the well-established reasons people need family and medical leave;
- ▶ Provide at least 12 weeks of leave and replace a substantial share of workers' usual wages; and
- ▶ Protect workers against adverse consequences for taking leave.

A real national paid leave plan – the FAMILY Act – is the solution

The Family and Medical Insurance Leave (FAMILY) Act is the only federal proposal that meets these criteria. The FAMILY Act means a stronger economy, healthier families and businesses, and greater workplace equality for women.
